CHONDROITIN SULFATE is a component of the cartilage, which prevents water penetration into tendons and joints. It prevents joints destruction and helps the mechanical characteristics of the joints.

CAPSICUM FRUTESCENS used on the body causes a sensation of heat that activates certain nerve cells. With regular use of capsaicin, this heating effect reduces the amount of substance P, which is a neuropeptide responsible of sending signals of pain to the brain thereby preventing transmission of pain feeling.

CAMPHOR exerts an analgesic action when applied topically by producing a warm sensation. It excites and desensitizes sensory nerves by activating heat-sensitive TRP vanilloid subtype 1 (TRPV1) and TRPV3 receptors.

MENTHOL provides a cooling and numbing sensation to the skin and prevents the pain from traveling to the central nervous system.
